 THAI

Nutra Suwantarat, M.D., is a board-certified pediatric hematologist-oncologist, holding certification from the Thai Board of Pediatric Hematology-Oncology. Her more than 10 years of experience is enhanced by her specialized training in pediatric stem cell transplantation and oncology.

Throughout her career, Dr. Nuttra has treated numerous pediatric patients with complex blood disorders and cancers. She has successfully performed bone marrow transplants, including haploidentical transplants, for children with severe hematological conditions. Her research on using daratumumab to lower antibodies in a challenging pediatric transplant case helped make the transplant a success and offers hope for similar difficult cases. Her expertise includes:

- Performing pediatric bone marrow transplantation, including haploidentical transplantation
- Treating pediatric cancers, including acute lymphoblastic leukemia (ALL), acute myelogenous leukemia (AML), neuroblastoma, osteosarcoma, and rhabdomyosarcoma
- Managing pediatric blood disorders, such as thalassemia, hemoglobinopathies, and bone marrow failure syndromes
- Treating bleeding and clotting disorders, including hemophilia, von Willebrand disease, and thrombocytopenia
