THAI

Hathaitip Chaiprapa, M.D., is a board-certified neonatal and perinatal medicine specialist with extensive experience in neonatal intensive care. She has undergone additional international training, including advanced neonatal care and air medical services in the USA and Japan.

With more than 15 years of experience, Dr. Hathaitip is certified in pediatric advanced life support (PALS) and neonatal resuscitation program (NRP) and has played a crucial role in developing neonatal transport systems. She also serves as an Instructor for the National Institute for Emergency Medicine, contributing to advancements in emergency care for newborns. Most recently, she participated in the HEMS Advanced Training and Trainer-the-Trainer Workshop at the ADAC HEMS Academy in Germany, further enhancing her expertise in air and helicopter patient transport to ensure the highest level of care in critical moments.

Dr. Hathaitip has treated numerous high-risk infants with successful outcomes, including preterm babies born at 26 weeks and weighing as little as 700 grams. She has presented research on neonatal respiratory care and contributed to innovations in neonatal transport.

Her expertise includes:

- Neonatal intensive care for preterm infants
- Neonatal resuscitation and critical care
- Managing high-risk infants with persistent pulmonary hypertension
- Advanced neonatal transport, including air and ground evacuations
- Leadership in neonatal simulation and training programs
